

Outdoor visit to the Post Office

Dated: 25th August 2023

The pre-preparation for the visit started by the teacher by explaining to the children about the post office. She briefed them about the post office logo, what happens at the post office, what all are we going to see there.

Later all the kids were asked to line-up and board the bus to reach the post office.

What a beautiful sight it was watching kids carefully and patiently getting up on the bus as per their turn and turkey eagerly seeing the kids off for their outdoor visit.

Once the bus reached the post office the children got down properly as instructed by the teachers. They patiently heard the teacher explaining about the letter box, post office counters, post box and learned about the letters sorting process.

The post office staff was kind enough to help children understand their work. And the most exciting part of this visit for the kids was to stamp their postcards (addressed to themselves) on their own.

It was a fun day at the post office and all the post office staff members as well as the customers visiting seemed to enjoy having our kids at the post office.

The kids got to know the Postman as well as the Postmaster, the teachers kept explaining what each of them does for us.

It was quite visible that the kids and the uncles were equally excited to meet each other.

Once the kids were done watching all the parts of the post office and met the staff, it was time to drop their cards in the letter box which again was a delight.

They first posed with their post cards and then waited in queue for their turn to drop it in the letter box and waited patiently for their friends to post their cards so that they all could reach back to school together by the school bus.

So here comes our outdoor learning trip to an end and I can't complete this report without giving a round of applause to all the teachers as these were the most well-conditioned set of toddlers I have ever seen.

Thank you so much Santa Maria School for this opportunity, I would be honoured to have this opportunity again in future.
